> A new-to-motorcycles product from Milenco, which has been making security products for decades. The Coleraine 12 uses an integral lock with just under 1m of chain length. The 12mm links means it is portable and usable, going through both ground anchors with just enough length to secure the bike. Under attack from the angle grinder, it was hard work to cut, the disk chattering on the hard surface but easing up as it went through to the softer centre. There was also something different about this chain, as immediately after the cutting, we all felt something in our throats and began coughing. A good performance for the brand's first appearance in the motorcycle media.
